Dr. Phyllis Gee is a board-certified OB/GYN who has practiced in the Dallas area since 1986 and been nationally recognized for her involvement in clinical research in women's health, helping to advance treatment options for uterine fibroids and endometriosis. She has presented numerous topics in women's health but is most passionate about raising awareness about hereditary cancer syndromes, especially hereditary breast, ovarian, uterine, and colon cancer.

As founder and medical director of Willowbend Health & Wellness in Plano, Texas, Dr. Gee and her team provide integrative functional medicine services to men, women, and adolescents with the goal of identifying the root cause of their symptoms through advanced diagnostic lab testing and functional health assessments. They then assist patients to restore their health utilizing holistic medical practices and advanced medical technology. Dr. Gee has developed a comprehensive cardiometabolic program which is successfully improving or resolving metabolic disorders like obesity, prediabetes, diabetes, fatty liver, and metabolic syndrome while providing lifestyle medicine education and active weight loss to a diverse population. Most recently Dr. Gee has incorporated regenerative medicine into their service offerings with a primary focus on urinary incontinence and sexual wellness.

Dr. Gee earned her BS degree in nutrition from Cornell University. She is a graduate of Wayne State University School of Medicine and completed her residency in Obstetrics and Gynecology at Albert Einstein College of Medicine in Bronx, NY. She began her career serving in the National Health Service Corps in Harlem, NY as a member of the faculty of Columbia Presbyterian Hospital, before relocating to Dallas to work for a large HMO, and subsequently establishing her private practice. Dr. Gee completed comprehensive functional medicine training while enrolled at the Kresser Institute for Functional and Evolutionary Medicine.

Dr. Gee has been actively involved in several hospital, civic and community organizations. She is a sustaining member of the Junior League of Collin County and alumna member of Plano North Metroplex Links Inc. She is married with one daughter and spends her free time volunteering, mentoring, and traveling.
